Photograph of Lake Pedder by Olegas Truchanas (1923 - 1972)

IHOS Music Theatre and Opera in association with Melva Truchanas, are offering a unique opportunity to purchase a copy of a rarely seen image of Lake Pedder by the wilderness explorer and photographer Olegas Truchanas.

This photograph of Lake Pedder bears testimony to the life and enduring legacy of the great Tasmanian explorer and wilderness photographer, Olegas Truchanas.

The proceeds from the sale of this beautiful and stirring image of Lake Pedder will go towards the creation of a new opera based on the extraordinary journey of his life.

Olegas
by Constantine Koukias & Natasha Cica

'I was at Lake Pedder in January 1972 when I heard the news that Olegas Truchanas had died in a canoeing accident on the upper reaches of the Gordon River. It was Olegas who had introduced me to the original Lake Pedder through one of his many audio-visual public presentations. Pedder so moved him that he called it 'his lake'.'

Geoff Parr

'If we can revise our attitudes towards the land under our feet... Tasmania can be a shining beacon in a dull, uniform and largely artificial world.'
